One travels in painting towards a state of in freedom where only certain things can happen, unaccountably the unknown and free must appear. Anxieties persist in my paintings and I am suspended between the order I see and an apprehension that everything must, and does move. I like to reflect on distances, gravity and positions of essential forms. There are so many things in my world to perceive from the tangible to the intangible, back to the future links of the tangible. I want to see and perceive accurately and inately my future painting pursuits.
